

The first business update occurred at the beginning of the year when we brought on Charleneelsey. She is as a part-time employee working in a variety of capacities, but focused on developing and supporting the wholesale market. Our hope is to expand our presence in the local yarn shop community so that more and more knitters will have access to Knitability kits and patterns. In addition, Charlene handles office duties so I can spend more time teaching, developing new classes and working up new designs.

The next adjustment will be in your Knitability News. We will be moving exclusively to the Knitability News Flash format with brief information and/or links to some combination of the following:

- Specials and discounts on Knitability products
- New product announcements
- Helpful tips, tricks and hints
- Free patterns from Knitability

Thanks for supporting Knitability and watch for more changes in the months to come.

Happy Knitting

San Francisco Retreat Fun for All

Only a week has passed since returning from San Francisco and the annual Knitting Teacher's Retreat.

We had a wonderful time, sharing information, enjoying wonderful food and building a support network with other teachers throughout the country. Teachers of all levels attend working in all types of venues including a couple of knitters who are in the process of developing their own teaching business. If you want to see pictures or make sure you are the first to receive information on next year's event, click here. Take your knitting to the next level and share your love of knitting!

If you are a teacher or know a teacher who would like to have your classes listed on our searchable web page at no charge, please e-mail me with your name and e-mail address so you can be added to our list. We are still in the process of updating our user interface, but hope to have something ready in the next 30 - 60 days. What this means is that you will be
