

Knitting Season Begins!

October 2006 - Vol 5; Issue 2

In This Issue

New Close-outs Just Added
Gwen Hosts a Knit-A-Long
Be a Part of the Club
Knitting Professor

Sign Up

Hot Items

Close-out Specials
Class In A Bag
Sample Stitch Kimono
Professor Gwen

Dear Customer,

The air is crisp, the farmers are bringing in the last of the harvest and the leaves are beginning to change colors. It can only mean one thing -- it is knitting season! Although many of us knit year around (I mean, why else was air conditioning invented?) Autumn is a special time for knitters. As outdoor activities begin to dwindle, indoor activities take center stage. And Knitability is ready with more items added to our close-out page, the introduction of the Sample Stitch Kimono Knit-A-Long (see the article below) and so much more. Pick up your needles and welcome to knitting season!

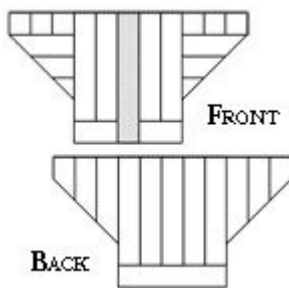

New Close-outs Just Added

New products have just been added to our Close-out section of our website. We have added quite a few yarns, both plain and fancy, but that is not all! Close out prices are 25% to 40% off the suggested retail and as always supplies are limited to stock on hand. Don't waste any time...

Shop Now

Gwen Hosts a Knit-A-Long

Starting in January of 2007, Knitability will be hosting a Sample Stitch Kimono (SSK) Knit-A-Long featuring 12 panels of texture, each utilizing a different technique. Participants in the SSK Knit-A-Long will be given information on selecting the yarn of their choice for the project, guidelines on sizing and special access to an web log (blog) set-up exclusively for communicating about the project.

Each month, participants will receive in the mail information regarding the technique for the month and 2 - 3 stitch pattern options making every kimono a unique creation. Sign-up now to receive your Sample Stitch Kimono binder and information on selecting yarn for your project. It is never too early to start shopping for yarn!

More Information...

Be a Part of the Club

Are you passionate about knitting? Do you find yourself teaching friends and family how to knit? Would you like to earn some money to support your habit doing what you love? If you have answered "YES", then the Knitability Club is right up your alley.

The Knitability Club was developed as a simplified version of our original Knitability Representative program. By joining the Club, members receive a discount code they can use on all their purchases including products from the Class In A Bag teaching system. Your membership level determines your discount allowing each individual to maximize their investment.

The Class In A Bag teaching system was designed with the independent instructor in mind. The Teacher Curriculum combined with the Student materials minimizes the time required to get started teaching. Join now, because starting in January, only a limited portion of the Knitability product line will be available to the general public. However, Club members will continue to have access to our entire line of products including Teacher's Curriculum and Student materials.

Learn more about the Knitability Club...

Knitting Professor

So after some thought and consideration, I have decided to change the name of my instructional blog from Professor Gwen to Knitting Professor. Mostly because I want to start inviting other knitting instructors to contribute and I thought Prof Gwen sounded too much like "ME! ME! ME!" My goal is to post at least once a week although I have not met my goal thus far - shoulder surgery is my excuse!

Currently I am working on a project that includes several cable patterns which has made me think about the issue of the best method to eliminate (or at least minimize) the rippled edge that often accompanies heavily cabled fabrics. A picture of the project in progress (see if you can guess what it is going to become) along with my proposed solution can be found on the Knitting Professor blog.

Read More....

Knitting season is upon us so hop over and shop the sale before all the bargains are gone. Remember you might to "refresh" your screen to see the most current offerings. Please share this newsletter with all your knitting friends and keep those needles busy.

Sincerely,

Gwen Bortner
Knitability, LLC

email: gwen@knitability.com

phone: 866.564.8548

web: <http://www.knitability.com>